Gergő Kovács

I acquired my skills through technical training and self-education. Over the past few years, I've been eagerly waiting for the opportunity to become a valuable part of an IT company. I dedicated most of my high school years to learning as much as possible about my profession - not only to become better at it, but also because I was genuinely interested. Day by day, I strive to deepen my knowledge in the field so that, in the future, I can become someone who is proud of my work.
